

Senegal's Green Party

Ousmane Sow Huchard, secretary-general of Senegal's Green Party, says that his party has taken the decision to go all-out so that people can see environmental activism as, "a sign of hope for the future, determined to build an 'eco-citizenship' — i.e. a new way of living. This will be achieved through a new citizen's charter for the 21st century - a century which must become 'ecology-minded' or it will turn out to be 'catastrophic'."
